Policy on Internet Usage

FISAT has an Internet Usage Policy to communicate the acceptable use of technology in the workplace.

- Users can access the Campus Wifi after registering their devices with the System Administration.
- The maximum bandwidth to the personal devices is restricted to 2Mbits/s. If any users require access to more bandwidth, they may contact the System Administration.
- According to the institution's policies, access to gaming websites, torrent traffic, and sensitive sites are blocked.
- The hostname and IP of the accessed website are logged in the internet gateway. Users are recommended to use HTTPS to transfer any sensitive information.
- VPNs are not allowed over the Campus WIFI.
- Use of wireless networks for any gaming or hosting purpose is strictly prohibited.
- The use of static IP addresses is not permitted inside the wireless network. If the user requires a static IP, they may contact the System Manager and get an exception.
- The internal website that uses the fisat.edu domain is not available inside the wireless network. If the user requires access to such a site, they can collect the Public Domain name and address of the sites from the System Administration.
