Policy on Continuous Improvement

In its quest for excellence, the Federal Institute of Science and Technology (FISAT) understands the importance of continuous improvement in all its activities. Therefore, FISAT strives to assure continuous improvement in the quality of teaching and learning and progress in the academic and administrative framework that supports teaching and learning within the institution.

When implementing the continuous improvement policy and procedure on an ongoing basis, FISAT systematically reviews each area of operations, identifies areas for improvement, implements corrective actions, monitors the effectiveness of actions taken, and makes amendments as appropriate.

- Continuous improvement activities include:
- Systematically identifying and scheduling all areas of operations to be reviewed
- Academic performance, all teaching-learning aspects, co-curricular and extracurricular activities, placement, facilities provided to students including hostels, library, playgrounds, gymnasium, administrative setup, student and faculty empowerment, etc
- Identifying criteria against which to measure performance
- Seeking feedback from stakeholders including students, staff, parents, alumni, employer
- Analyzing results and feedback at the department and institution level, including risk management considerations
- Identifying areas for improvement
- Identifying and implementing improvement actions
- Monitoring the effectiveness of improvement actions and making amendments where appropriate
- Communicating the outcomes to stakeholders
- Archiving the evidence and reports
